Exam Number (1)

Reading Comprehension: (50 marks)

Question Number One: (30points)

Read the following text and complete the tasks below:

- 1-It isn't hard to explain why parents, teachers and older people in general get so concerned about the negative effects of young people's use of communications technology. They may be motivated by a wish to protect their children from harm or to control them, but throughout history older generations have always tried to put limits on the behaviour of the young.
- 2-The only difference now is that the Internet is such a powerful force, and older people generally don't really understand this new world of social media and instant communication, so they're unable to control it. And the situation is changing so fast that the gap in their knowledge is widening all the time.
- 3-In a similar way, governments, even in democratic countries, like to put limits on people's behaviour. After all, it's a large part of what governments are about. They may have more technological knowledge than the average parent, but the spread of social media sites and communications apps like Twitter and WhatsApp is making it harder and harder for them to control what their citizens are saying and doing.
- 4-Clearly, this isn't always a positive trend, but what we can say for sure is that new information and communications technologies are a force for social change and economic development, especially in poorer countries without a reliable traditional phone network. The World Bank has calculated that in countries like this, a 10% increase in high-speed Internet connections leads to a 1.3% increase in economic growth. It is, they say, 'the single most powerful way to extend economic opportunities and services to millions of people, especially in remote areas'.
A recent headline on the BBC website asked: 'Could Ramallah become an Arab World technology hub?' The article went on to show how young Palestinians are starting small technology companies that could help the Palestinian economy to break free from the restrictions placed on it by the Israeli occupation. As one interviewee explains: 'This is what is good about technology: it breaks the borders. A person with a laptop can work in the worst situations; he can work from his home and interact with the global community, without a passport and despite the occupation. It is limitless.'

A. Match the following titles with the paragraphs in the text : (4 points)

- a. Difficulty of controlling citizens behavior.
- b. Inability of controlling the effects of technology.

Exam Number (2)

Reading Comprehension: (50 marks)

Question Number One: (30points)

Read the following text and complete the tasks below:

The results of a new poll show that financial problems have taken over from the environment as the main concerns for young people. The survey asked over 12, 000 people aged between 14 and 18 what they were most worried about. The clear winner was "finding a job", while the environment was only the seventh greatest worry. This compares with similar polls in the last fifteen years, when environmental worries came first. One of the poll's organizer's commented that the results demonstrated a clear change in attitude. " it's not just that getting a job is the main worry " he said . " also included in the top six worries were getting into debt (6th) and passing exams (4th) . I'm convinced that there's a connection because of the changes in the job market , there is more and more pressure on young people nowadays to pass exams and go on to university in the hope of finding a good job . Rising university fees make it inevitable that many students graduate from university with huge debts. Other concerns mentioned by large numbers of young people also tended to be personal rather than social , including worries about relationships (2nd), health (3rd) and " fitting in with peers " (4th) . Annette Coleman, director of the green earth organization, said yesterday that she was disappointed, but not surprised at the fall in the number of young people concerned about the environment. "It's not that environmental concerns are less urgent than before – quite the opposite in fact." it is just that after decades of publicity on topics like climate change, so little has actually changed. A lot of people get the feeling that there's nothing we can do about it, and young people in particular tend to be impatient. Of course, the other thing is that in times of economic difficulty, people are more likely to focus on worries that are more immediate and have an impact on their daily lives".

Question Number One: (20 points)

Read the following passage then answer the questions below:

....._Success is much more than riches, power or fame. Success is simply the feeling of satisfaction and happiness one gets from leading a particular way of life or carrying out a particular activity. Success in any field or aspect of life can only be achieved through serious hard work and a little bit of opportunity. One of the most important recipes of success is determination and it might as well be the most important secret of success.

....._ None can deny that the world blindly respects and trusts wealthy people. Money is the prime dynamic force that drives this world. The sooner we acknowledge and appreciate this fact the better. Academic success is a prime concern for all in the initial part of life, especially in the school days. For those who continue pursuing studies, academic success is the epitome of everything. It is mostly observed that success in personal life becomes a tough task for those who have all the riches. Here is where the common people feel successful to have a happy personal life.

.....People should not regret their decisions taken in the past and must refrain dwelling in the past. We must give deep thought before taking any decisions and uttering words from the mouth. For making a successful decision, you must ask questions to yourself like: What Do I Need To Do? What Will Be The Outcome? Will It Be Worth Doing? You must keep the emotions for success and failures intact and should not showcase it to others. Successful people never wait for applause or acknowledgement of their work as they eventually get it.

..... To become successful, you must keep friends close and enemies closer. A successful person never demeans the weak and never underestimates anyone. You have to understand what is important in that instant, recognize and work on the weaknesses, take criticism and hold on to the strengths. From a broader perspective, success defines the contentment, peace of mind and sheer happiness that is achieved. You should remember that only perseverance can lead the path to success.

Exam Number (3)

Reading Comprehension: (50 marks)

Question Number One: (30points)

Read the following text and complete the tasks below:

Most schools claim to prepare students for the world of work, but Milton Secondary School takes the claim very seriously. Before they even join the school, future pupils get an informal interview at their primary school to discuss their hopes and preferences for the future. The emphasis on employment continues during the first two years at Milton, and then in the third year all pupils spend a day doing work experience at a local company. Two years later, this becomes a whole week spent with a company, usually arranged by the students themselves. Throughout their secondary education, students have professional careers advice, which costs the school over £30,000 a year. Head teacher Harriet Downs believes it's worth it, though: 'Teachers aren't trained as careers advisers,' she says, 'so we bring in professional help. It's part of a co-ordinated programme that aims to make students aware of the employment options available, and how to make the most of them. It's too late to start talking about work in their final year.'

Exam Number (4)

Reading Comprehension: (50 marks)

Question Number One: (30points)

Read the following text and complete the tasks below:

Information and Communications Technology businesses could be the best hope for the economic future of Palestine, according to experts inside and outside the country. A recent report said that the ICT sector makes up over 5% of the Palestinian economy. Why ICT? For Mustafa Jawad, the 23-year-old head of an online graphic design company, the answer is simple: ‘For an ICT start-up, all you need is a computer and a connection. You can distribute your final product by exporting it to the internet cloud.’ There are still problems, though. The main one is a lack of 3G networks in Palestine, because access to the necessary wavebands is not available.

Mustafa was always good at art and languages, and when he finished school, everyone advised him to study English at university. Instead, he taught himself how to programme and started making his own software programmes. His first attempt was a game, which was so popular with his fellow students that he decided starting his own company might be a real possibility.

His big breakthrough came when he attended a ‘start-up weekend’ in Ramallah. He managed to get a small amount of financial support, which gave him the time to develop more ideas. Perhaps more importantly, he met other business people, both Palestinian and from other countries. He learnt a lot about the practical side of running a business and about how to get his products noticed.

Mustafa is currently working on a programme that makes the teaching of chemistry in schools more fun. He has already had interest from within Palestine and from other countries in the Arab world. Like a lot of other young Palestinian business people, he wants to do something positive to help his country, but he stresses that his company isn’t a humanitarian operation. ‘It’s a business,’ he says, ‘and the aim is to get good returns on the investment.’

Exam Number (5)

Reading Comprehension: (50 points)

Question Number One: (30points)

Read the following text and complete the tasks below

There are limits to how many sports can be included in Olympic games. In the 2012 summer games there were 26, and the International Olympic Committee (IOC) have added two more for 2016 (golf and rugby). There are various criteria that the IOC bases its decisions on, but the most important is probably international popularity. Sports tend to get included if they have a tradition and are played and watched by enough people in enough countries. This leads to some interesting questions. Why, for example, was baseball included from 1984, but then dropped for 2012? Although some think it is only popular in the USA, it actually has a large following in South America and Asia too. The main reason for leaving it out, according to some is a combination of geography and politics: there is little interest in the sport in Europe, and European members are in a majority on the IOC.

Of the other sports not (yet) included, one that stands out is squash. It has a long tradition and is its more mysterious why certain sports are included. Take speed walking, for example, a long – standing Olympic regular. The rules say that the athletes have to have both feet in contact with the ground at all times, and must keep their legs straight. The result, to me at least, looks very silly. More importantly, it breaks one of my two personal rules for judging serious sports because it puts artificial in water that is more be done. This is why I can't take any sport seriously if it involves doing something in water that is more naturally done out of water. My other rule is that the scoring has to be objective and measurable, not a matter of opinion. And of course both these criteria would rule out everyone's favourite example of an Olympic non – sport: synchronized swimming.

A- Answer the questions. (8 points)

1. How many sports were included in the 2012 summer Olympics ?

Question Number One: (20 marks)

Read the following passage then answer the questions below:

Like it or not, today’s young people are the connected generation. A recent study in the US found that nearly a quarter of teenagers use social media sites at least ten times a day and 75% own mobile phones. Texting is now the main form of communication for young people. The figures obviously vary between countries, but the one thing we can predict is that they will continue to rise.

Inevitably, this has led to panic among parents, teachers and other adults. But are these fears justified? Not according to Dr Amy Lehane, who has studied exactly how young people are using technology. ‘If you look back,’ she says, ‘you find the same panic reaction from older people to the growth of the telephone or television. Often it comes from a fear of something they don’t understand, but our research indicates that young people are quite capable of telling the difference between the online world and the real world, or between the types of language used for texts and job applications. They’re also very aware of the possible negative effects of technology: they know, for example, that it’s not a good idea to post a message like ‘I’m having a party next Saturday’ on a public site.’

Exam Number (6)

Reading Comprehension: (50 marks)

Question Number One: (30 points)

Read the following text and complete the tasks below:

We often hear people say, ‘It’s a small world, isn’t it?’ It’s usually when they’ve just experienced one of those strange coincidences that seem to happen in nearly everyone’s lives. You know the kind of thing: you’re on holiday in another country and you run into a person you know from home, even though neither of you knew that the other was going there too. People often think experiences like this are evidence of something mysterious happening, some kind of hidden plan outside our knowledge. The scientific explanation is less exciting, and perhaps that’s why some people are reluctant to accept it. Coincidences are events that unexpectedly happen at the same time for no clear reason, or finding an unexpected connection between seemingly random things or people. A very common example of the latter is talking to a complete stranger and finding that you have the same birthday. What are the chances of that happening?

Actually, the chances are better than you might think, and there’s a mathematical way to prove it. It has been calculated that the number of people you need to have a 50% chance of two of them sharing a birthday is 23. And when there are 48 people in a room, the probability goes up to 95%. To put it another way, if there are only 50 people reading these words (and I hope there are more!), one of them will almost certainly have the same birthday as me. The other part of the scientific explanation for coincidences is simply that there are so many events in people’s lives. Just think of the number of people that you have had any kind of connection with during your life. There are probably over 10,000, and the older you get, the more there will be. If you are the kind of person who talks to strangers, you will definitely come across coincidences. Basically, when you think about how complex our lives are, especially nowadays with the Internet, the only surprising thing is that coincidences don’t happen more often.

A: Read the text then complete the table with the right definitions from the text: (2 points)

Question Number two: (20 points)

Read the following passage then answer the questions below: (20 points)

Your comfort zone is, as the name suggests, the area where you feel comfortable. We all have one, whether we know it or not: it's the set of routines and known abilities that make us feel safe because we're confident that we can manage and are unlikely to be challenged by anything unexpected or worrying. Obviously, staying inside your comfort zone has many benefits, especially at times when you are feeling under stress.

On the other hand, we're often told in 'self-help' books that it's a good idea to do things that are outside our comfort zones. In fact, many studies have shown that an important factor in helping people feel positive about themselves is the feeling that they are developing and making progress in their lives. You won't reach your full potential if you only do what you know you are able to do. We all want .to improve ourselves, for example by learning something new, becoming more creative or getting fit.

Unfortunately, people often get stuck in their comfort zones and don't feel able to try different things. There are various possible reasons for this. They may be afraid of failing or unsure how to begin. Many people think 'This is the way I am and I'll never change', using this as an excuse for not trying something new. Whatever the reason may be, it's sometimes necessary to force yourself to do something you'd rather not do. Once you've made the effort, though, the door to new experiences will be open and you'll probably wonder why you thought it was a problem.

A- Decide whether each of the following is True or False: (4 points)

1. Staying inside our comfort zones has many benefits especially when we're worried.()
2. Stepping outside your comfort zone means more challenges and worries. ()

Exam Number (7)

Reading Comprehension: (50 marks)

Question Number One: (30points)

Read the following text and complete the tasks below:

I enjoyed reading the article 'Clinging to culture' and I'd like to add a few points of my own. It's often been observed that expatriates are more likely to show the outward signs of their culture than their fellow countrymen who stay at home. Think of Scotsmen in New Zealand who wear kilts, or English people in Spain who insist on drinking tea with milk and eating fish and chips, or 'Irish- Americans' who often seem more Irish than the Irish. As a Welshman living in South America, I can understand why this happens. It's not that these people spend their time looking forward to 'going home': they're usually committed to living in the place they've chosen. They don't, for example, object to paying local taxes. They just have a need to hold on to what they see as an important part of their identities. The same kind of need, I believe, happens with language. When I lived in the south of England, one of my neighbours was an old lady who had moved there from a northern town when she was quite young. Despite living in the south for over fifty years, her accent remained strongly northern. The reason, I think, is clear: being 'a northerner' was, unconsciously, an essential part of who she was.

Language teachers will tell you that learners often find pronunciation the hardest part of a foreign language, and I'm sure there's a connection. If, say, Italian learners of English start speaking with a 'correct' accent, they feel they are becoming more English, and therefore less Italian. Unless you actually want to change your identity, it's hard to let go. Just as an example, listen to French people who speak almost perfect English.

However good they are, it is usually impossible to mistake them for anything other than French. The accent, it seems, is always the last thing to disappear.

a. Answer the following questions: (6 points)

1. According to the writer, why do expatriates show the outward signs of their culture?

Exam Number (8)

Reading Comprehension: (50 marks)

Question Number One: (30points)

Read the following text and complete the tasks below:

Are today's young sports stars overpaid ?It's an opinion you'll often hear repeated , especially In the world of football. The figures are astonishing . When the Welsh player Garth Bale joined Real Madrid in 2013 ,his repeated salary was around 250.000 a week or ,if you prefer ,13$million a year. So every week he earns as much as the average Real supporter makes in ten years . This may be an extreme example , but there are a lot more footballers around the world earning almost as much . It's a situation that makes some people very angry ,but those who are infuriated by it often forget What players have to do to get to the top ,and the risks involved . A new book by Wayne Barton tells the story of some of those who fell on the way up . These are young men who achieved the dream of playing for the famous club Manchester United ,but only had short careers , often because of injuries .Take young Tony Gill ,for example , who was on his way to becoming a regular first team player when he hurt his leg and was never be able to recover ,or the young forward Deiniol Graham , who broke his arm and never played professionally again. The list of these tragedies goes on ,but the story that stands out is that of Giuliano Maiorana . At the age of 19, he was playing for n amateur team in Cambridge shire, England when he was noticed by one of Manchester United's many scouts ,who was searching the lower levels of football for promising young players .At first Giuliano thought the offer of a trial for the world famous Manchester club was a joke . It wasn't- only months later ,he played his first match at United's home ground ,Old Trafford. He still remembers the mixture of excitement and terror he felt. Unfortunately, he didn't get on well with the manager ,and was soon playing in the reserve team. It was in a reserve match two years later that his knee was badly damaged .Soon, at the age of 24 , his career was finished . For seven years after that ,he couldn't even watch football . He now works for his family's business back in Cambridge , moving furniture ,and says that he now wishes he hadn't been so good at football when he was young .
